

Department of Philosophy
Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences in Rijeka

Project RAD
Responding to antisocial personalities in a democratic society

Summer School "Equality and Citizenship" 2022

Workshop: Mental disorders, public justification, and values

21st and 22nd July 2022

Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences in Rijeka Room 401

21 JULY 2022 – THURSDAY
10:00-11:30	John McMillan (University of Otago) Epistemic trust, epistemic injustice, and therapy for mental illness Keynote speaker
11:30-11:40	Break
11:40-12:30	Elisabetta Lalumera (University of Bologna) Patient involvement in psychiatric classification: it can mean different things
12:30-13:20	Elvio Baccharini (University of Rijeka) The role of experts in public deliberations about antisocial personalities
13:20-15:00	Lunch Break
15:00-15:50	Kristina Lekić Barunčić (University of Rijeka) Neurodiverse biological citizens, trust and experts
15:50-16:40	Elvio Baccharini (University of Rijeka), Iva Martinić (University of Rijeka) The public justification of evaluative standards and personal differences in the definition of disabilities
22 JULY 2022 – FRIDAY
10:00-11:30	Inti A. Brazil (Radboud University) Reflections on what the application of computational approaches in psychiatry can(not) help with Keynote speaker
11:30-11:40	Break
11:40-12:30	Konrad Banicki (Jagiellonian University) Psychiatric diagnosis and normativity. Whose values? Which rationality?
12:30-13:20	Mladen Bošnjak, Marko Jurjako, Luca Malatesti (University of Rijeka) Criminal responsibility of high-functioning autistic offenders in Croatia
13:20-15:00	Lunch Break
15:00-15:50	Mia Biturajac (University of Rijeka) Compassionate revisionism and harm
15:50-16:40	Mladen Bošnjak (University of Rijeka) Assessment and explanation in forensic psychiatry: some conceptual issues

The workshop is an outcome of the project RAD (Grant: IP-2018-01-3518)

that is funded by the Croatian Science Foundation

Organisation: Mia Biturajac, Marko Jurjako, Luca Malatesti

